

Astro architecture – A modern science based on ancient wisdom for your house

Have you ever wondered why some houses are lucky for few but bring downfall for others? Why some businesses flourish in their offices but others in the same place go bankrupt? Neeta Sinha, a pioneer and torch bearer of the science of astro architecture, explains the reasons

For the past 33 years, Neeta Sinha has been practicing the house energy science called "Astroarchitecture" to align the energies of a place with that of its master. The science was discovered when back in the 80's, Neeta and her guru Late Dr L. N Kusuma set out to answer a question that 'Why when the Vastu of all the flats in a high rise are the same, different individuals experience different results in their lives?' In their quest they researched some 30,000 homes and came across the discovery that 'Every house has a horoscope' which helped them seed the foundation of this science.

Early in her career, Neeta was referred to as a Vastu expert or a Feng shui consultant because she had no other reference or name to make people understand what the science is all about. Thanks to the suggestion by Dilip Cheria, Neeta finally named it Astro architecture, the unique science that applies the laws of vedic astrology to the dimensions and direction of any architecture. Its easy to implement solutions and the tremendous results that it produced garnered it clientele like Amitabh Bachchan, Akshay Kumar, Shahrukh Khan, luxurious hotel chains like the Hyatt, Della Resorts, Marriott, builders like Muchhala Group, Oberoi Builders, Raheja's, Lokhandwala, corporate houses like Reliance, Godrej and many more.

Neeta says, "People don't even realize that how much their residence and office influences the results in their lives. For example: Children's performance, health, depression, marriages, finances, harmony etc are all areas that a house can influence considerably." Astroarchitecture helps to not only identify what the challenges are that an individual, family or business houses are facing, but also resolves it for them. "Thanks to this science, I walk into a place and immediately am able to predict all the problems that is being faced by anyone living in that area. The best and most satisfying part is that astroarchitecture allows me to balance the energies which begins showing favorable results for my clients very soon. When I say balance it means that reducing the power of negative sectors in the place and enhancing the power of positive sectors there." Claims Neeta.

All this is possible once the horoscope of the premise is prepared as per the architectural dimensions and directions in addition to the name of the individual who owns or rents it. Therefore this science does not have general rules that everyone can follow but individual suggestions for different places and case studies. Getting your place balanced with the help of this science helps to promote growth, prosperity and harmony in people's lives without having to go through any kind of structural changes that the ancient science like Vastu involves.

Astroarchitecture has its roots and solution firmly placed in the vedic science of astrology from our land and the natural science of Feng Shui from the east. Neeta is able to balance and even enhance a place by use of colors, mirrors and plants. For example: For the Muchhala's pet project, the famous 'Suraj Water Park' recently I asked them to paint an entire portion of wall red to enhance their business activities. Red is a powerful attractor and the basic law of energy says that energy flows where attention goes. Even for their magnificent Shiva hill, I suggested to apply Tilak to the lords forehead. Lot of their patrons have appreciated the new look.'

The solutions in astroarchitecture are simple and easily incorporated into the interiors of the place. It is able to specifically influence results in specific areas of ones lives. "The irony is," says Neeta, "that my credibility is trusted because of the famous names I have as my clients, but the same names make people feel that I only work for the rich & famous. The truth is that for the past 33 years I have been working hard with my husband Ravi to cater and bring the benefits of this science to people from all walks of life. For overseas clients or remote clients who find it difficult to invite me, we even give our prediction over a plot map which has been proven equally effective. From past many years my son Ankur and daughter Anshu are helping me take this science forward to the masses. Together as a team and the only astroarchitects in the world we are striving to not isolate this science to select few but to help as many people as we can through it."

Can it be proclaimed as a divine science? Maybe not! As per Neeta, the only reason it is considered divine is because of our incapability to quantify the energies around us with our 5 senses. Everything has an energetic field and we are in constant interaction with each one of them. Some bring health and happiness whereas others bring challenges. But the place that you live in or spend maximum time of your day in should support your growth and not block it. In such a scenario Astro architecture provides the right guidance and solution to improve the quality of your life.
